

from the K. U. NEWS BUREAU

■ KANSAS UNIVERSITY

■ LAWRENCE, KANSAS

■ K. W. DAVIDSON, Director of the School of Engineering, and has been developed through one of the industrial research fellowships granted by the Kansas legislature and supervised at the University by the Kansas Industrial Development Commission, *

V
A fourth building has just recently been added to the University's building complement through the purchase of the Acacia Fraternity House, ~~which will~~ by the University Endowment Association, which will opened the second semester as a scholarship cooperative dormitory, housing 35 boys. Three dormitories are already in operation, and last year a new record for low cost living in American Universities was established by these halls. They are also unique in American Education in that they are the only cooperative halls where scholarship is a basis for entrance.

*The University has received much national publicity through the development of this building formula.