

morning and had me listed as the starter at the right end position. I hope the coach sticks to that and don't change his mind like they sometimes do. I'm sure I'm in to go. This navy life is treating me swell. I'm in tip top shape and now weigh 190 lbs stripped. I imagine more weight will be coming too if I keep training and eating as much as I've been eating.

As for my school work, I'm setting "jake" right now. I even hit my last quiz in physics for a "90"; the next one will be a different story for I haven't been able to work a problem over the last five chapters. If anything flunks me out, it will be physics. I'll know in four more wks. Of course, I keep telling myself I'll pass it alright, but it may be a different story; let's hope not.

I guess you are still practicing basketball. What kind of a team are you rounding out? Have you some pretty good material to work with? Let me know all the dope. I'll keep up on things the best I can. My folks send me clippings all the time. I enjoyed one especially where you shot that sub-par golf on a bad leg. You want to stay sharp for I'll be back to challenge you soon.

It's time to go to class again so will close hoping to hear from you soon about all the news taking place at Mt. Oread.

Sincerely yours,
Jesse Paul Turner
