

been killed in action. Certainly the wonderful tribute you wrote in the Rebounds typifies the feeling we all had for T. P., one of the swiftest fellows I've ever known.

The job over here continues to be pretty much the same as it has been right along. This month has been unusually inactive, lots of fog & rain which has kept the Forts on the ground right at the time when they were needed the most. They have been out the past two days, however, & I can imagine what a welcome sight they were to the ground forces who have been having a tough time of late.

Altho facilities are rather limited, we do have what looks
