

To generalize:

A pool can be no better than its personnel. Good personnel can make the pool a powerful factor in the leisure time activities of the community. Good personnel must be chosen carefully along certain predetermined lines and should be paid adequately for the services they render.