

Okla. A. & M. May Battle The Jayhawks

No definite decision has yet been made by Kansas and Oklahoma A. & M. to play basketball games next season, but tentatively scheduled is an encounter here Feb. 18 with the possibility that a repeat performance will be held in Stillwater some time during the season, Dr. Forrest C. Allen, head basketball coach at the University, said today.

The Missouri Valley champions, coached by Henry Iba, are undecided as to whether or not they should schedule two games with the Jayhawkers, an attitude rather in contrast to proceedings of last year when negotiations were made eagerly with Dr. Allen to have Kansas meet the Aggies, with the result that the Cowboys licked the Jayhawks twice, lost once, and then lost to them again in the game at Wichita for the right to play in the N.C.A.A. championships in Kansas City. Since the Wichita fracas, Iba has lost four of his outstanding men and must build a new team this year, which might have something to do with his indecision about scheduling games with Kansas.

For the first time in many years, the Allenmen will be pitted against the University of Wichita, Feb. 4, there, barring unforeseen obstacles, Dr. Allen announced today. The game will be one of eight non-conference games on the Jayhawker schedule, which includes a game with Fordham, at New York, and Temple, at Philadelphia. Following is the schedule as it stands at present:

(Big Six Conference)

Oklahoma at Norman, Jan. 8.
Iowa State at Lawrence, Jan. 13.
Missouri at Lawrence, Jan. 16.
Kansas-S. at Manhattan, Jan. 20.
Neb. at Lawrence, Feb. 10.
Mo. at Columbia, Feb. 21.
Kansas S. at Lawrence, Feb. 25.
Neb. at Lincoln, March 1.
Iowa State at Ames, March 7.
Oklahoma at Lawrence, March 8.

(Non-Conference)

Okla. A. & M. at Stilwater, ? ?
U. of Texas at Lawrence, Dec. 9, 10.
Fordham at New York, Dec. 28.
Temple at Philadelphia, Dec. 30.
Loyola at Chicago, Jan. 2.
Wichita U. at Wichita, Feb. 4.
Okla. A. & M. at Lawrence, Feb. 18.