

AUCTIONEER

AUCTIONEER

E. E. YOUNG

Licensed REAL ESTATE Broker

313 E. Vermont St.

ANAHEIM, CALIFORNIA

Page -2-

vote of my fellowmen after they have had a chance to study BOTH sides of any question and then allowed to decide upon their own free will.

While I was in school I thought I was getting an education, working my way through and coming out of the war about ($700.) seven hundred dollars in debt, but I find I was mistaken. The last few years I have learned more by several times over than I had learned all my life up to then. This mostly by searching for the truth and I am still searching, keeping myself and family well without any medical thugs, drugs or supporting the chemical trust, serum manufacturers, or John Barleycorn. My Mother is gone, but not in vain and my Dad is still here at near the eighty mark.

I'm still a poor man, but I have something to do as an obligation to my fellowmen other than struggling my life out for an existence. It's political thugs, gambling thugs, medical thugs, financial thugs, military thugs and others on every turn and I for want to give you a hand as I will to any MAN that has the courage to stand his ground and speak right into their face as you have. When Patsy Clark was football coach I attended a game that Missouri ^{had} before the Kansas game that year and wrote him and the team how they played, their weak spots and what had to be done to beat Missouri and they came back with a victory and this made me feel good of course. But I know Kansas does not make a god of games like many of the other schools do and over the radio out here they are not mentioned unless they have to- it's always the big shots somewhere else.

Well, I would like to stroll on the campus again, and gaze in every direction from Mt. Oread over the valleys and hills and I have a feeling of respect for the old memories and also a feeling of deep disappointment of the place that our so called civilization has come too so don't feel that you must answer me, but I say more power to you and if I can do something at the right time other than talk that will help straighten this world mess out, before it is too late, I owe it to my fellowmen to do all I can.

Thanks for listening, and,

Best regards,

E. E. Young

P.s. It may surprise you when I say that Auctioneering is the highest profession on earth today- they can do more good and have more respect etc. than any other. E. E. Y.