Manhattan, Kansas.

Dear Mike:

Thank you for your very good letter. Yes, Mike, I knew through my knowledge of the rules and the experience that I had gained here as Director of Athletics that you of yourself could not do the things that I asked. But I was hoping that you would ask Dr. King to consider the matter.

I know that it would be illegal, but I thought since Oklahoma had been so definitely illegal and then had endeavored to smoke screen the issue, that maybe someone might want to call their hand. I certainly would if I could have an opportunity to do so. I am not a policeman nor do I desire to persecute anyone, but this Lester Layton case is not ended yet. Nor is the action back of transporting those ten boys to Oklahoma U. over yet. I will endeavor to lay before the conference some information that I think will be rather surprising, and if the conference desires to do nothing about it, then well and good.

Frankly, there are too many yes men in the country and again, there are too many fellows who think the other fellow has got something on them and they are afraid to speak their minds. I felt that since Oklahoma has cast aspersions on the University of Kansas and had insinuated that her basketball coach had made some startling offers to Mr. Tucker, then and there I wanted to call their hand, and I still do. I have never seen you afraid of anybody and I do not think that situation will ever exist.

If dirty linen must be dragged out of the closet to clean some things up, then I have no hesitancy in doing the unsavory job. In my humble opinion, Oklahoma has been in very much the position of Japan when they marched into Manchuko and of Hitler when he marched into the Ruhr Valley. It seems as if

Dear "Phog":

Your letter suggesting that we hold a meeting of the basketball coaches plus "Jap" Haskell and Bruce Drake has been received. As you have already indicated in your newspaper comments, it arrived after I had mailed my answer in the Tucker case to "Jap" Haskell.

However, I am certain that you, through your long experience as a director of athletics, know that I do not have the authority to call such a meeting because the subject matter is of a legislative nature. Apparently, it is difficult, and perhaps rightly so, for one to secure concrete evidence of subsidization of athletes by members of any Conference. Rumors fly thick and fast, and one may have his own opinions regarding the actions of certain schools, but it is quite another thing to prove guilt in a case. I believe that my contention is supported by the fact that newspapers quote Oklahoma authorities as furnishing proof that Lester Layton is not being paid by the Boston Red Sox, but has been legitimately working his way through school.

In the morning paper they also maintain that they are entirely innocent on the charge that they are paying the expenses of the boys from Wichita High School.

I appreciated receiving the information contained in your letter, but as previously stated, I have no authority vested in me to call such a meeting as you suggest, because such a meeting is handled by the Faculty Representatives of the Big Six Conference.

Very sincerely yours,

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION FOR HEALTH, PHYSICAL EDUCATION, AND RECREATION

Committee on Student Section

To: The State Presidents of the Health, Physical Education, and Recreation Associations

Dear President:

The Committee on Student Section, appointed by the president of the American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation, is attempting to interest major students in the affairs of their state and national associations. Some of the ways in which we hope to accomplish this aim is by promoting student membership in the above organizations, by stimulating an increased attendance at association conventions and by promoting state, district, and national student sections.

May we urge you to encourage the teacher-training institution in your state to send in their student state and national members. A list of these institutions is enclosed in this letter. The report of official membership in your state appeared in the September 1941 Journal of Health and Physical Education as you no doubt know. May we suggest that you consult the student columns of this report for a check up on this section of your state membership.

In connection with student attendance at the coming national convention, do you think it is possible to secure a student or group student rate on bus and train? Contact with the various transportation companies might result in reduced fares for students and be a means of enabling more students to attend the convention.

Many states already have student sections in their state associations. These sections function at the state conventions and sometimes throughout the year. It would be a big step forward if with the formation of a national student section there were also similar district and state sections through which there might be a unity of work and purpose. Will you please give us your suggestions for a state section when you answer the questions enclosed with this letter.

We have included a short list of questions. The suggestions and replies of all state presidents will be tabulated and sent back to each state so that you may share in the ideas of all.

May I thank you in advance in behalf of my committee for your help in furthering our work.

Very truly yours,

Virginia Bourquardez, Chairman
Committee on Student Section
A.A.H.P.E.R.

QUESTIONS ABOUT STUDENT PROBLEMS

(Please answer each question fully and place each answer on a separate sheet.)

1. Is there a definite campaign for securing student members in your state and if so, how is it organized?
2. How does the state association stimulate student attendance at state conventions? at national conventions? Do you have further suggestions for this?
3. Does your state association have a student section? If so, how is the section organized? What are the functions of the section?
4. Do you have any additional suggestions for getting students to actively participate in their professional associations?

Gwinn Henry has just turned over to me your letter of January 30th regarding the basketball films.

We have just returned to our desk after being absent several days on a basketball trip, and I have not yet had an opportunity to see the film. I am not sure that it is ready yet, but I shall make inquiries and write you again in the very near future.

We shall be happy to loan them to Jack Gardner when they are available. You may expect to hear from me again.

I am not a member of the Summerfield Scholarship Committee, but I am very happy to refer your letter to Dean J. H. Nelson, who is on the committee. Professor Olin Templin is chairman of the committee, but confidentially, I believe it might harm the boy for me to recommend him to Professor Templin. He has not been friendly toward athletics, and frankly if the boy has any athletic skill I believe a statement from me would not help any.

I trust that you will pardon me for writing you in this manner, but I want to do what is best for Frank's welfare.

"The NERVOUS SYSTEM"

"The Chart of the Nervous System is exactly what I have been looking for for these many years. It fills the great need that we have in teaching gross anatomy."

—C. M. McFALL, Professor of Anatomy
The George Washington University School of Medicine

"We believe that the chart on the anatomic nervous system will be excellent for teaching purposes. The chart shows the structure in very good detail and is so carefully and clearly labeled that it should be an invaluable tool for students."

—BLANCHE E. EDWARDS, Superintendent of Nursing
Bellevue Hospital, Bellevue School of Nursing

"It appears to me to fill a long felt need. Charts of this nature have been issued before, but none it seems to me have the clearness and the accuracy of this one. I have examined it with some care and believe that there is not much room for improvement."

—DR. CHARLES H. SWIFT
The University of Chicago, Department of Anatomy

"The chart of the nervous system is, in my opinion, a very excellent artistic as well as a scientific accomplishment. It should prove of great value not only in the teaching of anatomy, but also as a constant reference."

—OTHMAR SOLNITZKY, M.D., Professor of Anatomy
Georgetown University School of Medicine,
Brain Research Institute

"The chart of the nervous system which you have shown me is excellent and I wish to place my order."

—L. C. DUNN, Executive Offices
Columbia University, Department of Zoology

"After examination of your very interesting chart of the nervous system, I will advise its purchase."

—H. B. BAKER, Zoological Laboratory
University of Pennsylvania

"I have examined your chart of the human nervous system and I am convinced that it will be of great value in teaching. I also feel that it is superior to other charts."

—DWIGHT L. HOPKINS, Ph.D.
Mundelein College, Department of Biology

"After examination of your very interesting chart of the nervous system, I will speak with Dr. Haggard regarding the purchase of one."

—LEON A. GREENBERG, Ph.D.
Yale University, Laboratory of Applied Physiology

"The chart of the nervous system promises to be very useful in teaching and I suggest that one be ordered for our use here in Neuroanatomy."

—ELIZABETH C. CROSBY, Professor of Anatomy
University of Michigan Medical School

"It is remarkable with what great clarity Mr. Peter Bachin has been able to portray the unending detail. My department will gladly purchase a copy of this beautiful chart."

—OTTO F. KAMPMEIER, Professor of Anatomy
University of Illinois, College of Medicine

This chart was designed and edited by Peter Bachin, who combines in a rare way a knowledge of human anatomy with the skilled craftsmanship of an artist. During his travels introducing the Bachin Chart of the Vascular System and lecturing on it, he was requested by leading anatomists, biologists and heads of hospital training schools to take up the task of producing a chart of the nervous system. Much study and research went into its preparation. Not only has no chart of equal scope ever before been available but many of the structures pictured on this Chart of the Nervous System cannot be found in any textbook. A careful study of this chart is the best preparation for work at the dissecting table. For example, using this chart one can easily trace the sympathetic system from the cephalic down through its cervical, thoracic, abdominal and pelvic portions to the caudal end where both its trunks converge in a single ganglion, the ganglion impar.

The simple reproduction shown here can do no more than suggest the size, beauty, and exquisite detail of the actual chart, and it omits one of the most important EXCLUSIVE features of the "Bachin Chart of the Nervous System": EVERY NERVE AND STRUCTURE IS LABELED IN FULL DETAIL RIGHT ON THE FACE OF THE CHART, a simplification that does away with the inconvenience of key books or other reference in study and teaching.

THE NERVOUS SYSTEM

The enormous expense of engraving plates and lithographing in colors is justified by the clarity. This chart represents a complex subject which the average student of anatomy has always found difficult to visualize. The principal figure is life size. An ingenious use of color clearly distinguishes the physiological function of the entire Nervous System, male and female—the Voluntary System in yellow, the Involuntary (Sympathetic) System in light grey, and the Involuntary (Parasympathetic) System in light blue. NO OTHER CHART INCLUDES ALL THREE. Exception: The Vagi nerves, which contain mixed fibers, and the other Cranial nerves are shown in yellow to avoid confusion and for better artistic contrast. In addition, the "Bachin Chart of the Nervous System" includes the entire skeleton and, in the most important regions, for relation, the blood vessels, muscles and ligaments. Six (6) special insets on the same chart include:

- 1—Lateral view of the female pelvis, with its organs and nerve supply.
- 2—The base of the brain and cranial nerves.
- 3—A Lateral View of the cervical Vertebrae and cervical nerves.
- 4—A section in four levels between the 3rd and 4th cervical Intervertebral disc, to show the Meninges.
- 5—A longitudinal posterior section of the Thoracic Vertebrae, to show the sinuvertebrae nerve.
- 6—An anterior section of the Thoracic Vertebrae to show the origin of the thoracic intercostal nerve.
