Dear Dr. Allen,

Dick asked me to write you to give you his new address since he may not have a chance to write you himself for quite awhile. He has just arrived in the Philippines and is stationed at a replacement depot near a large city which I assume is Manila. He will be there until assigned to a regular outfit. Their trip over was long and uneventful, but he was in an air raid a couple of days after arriving in the Philippines. That was a good way to get initiated! On the way across the chief source of amusement seemed to be boxing matches and other athletic events suitable for a crowded transport ship. The one which the fellows liked most was one in
