P.S. My suggestion always has been if and when such a rule should be enacted in elevating the basket that there should be a moratorium of three years in order to permit any player now in the game full play under the 10 foot basket. The oncoming tall players would naturally play under the new rule. (Also, the free throw is suggested from a distance of 20 feet on account of the increased height of the basket making the trajectory easier for the thrower.)
