Dear Mr. Allen:

About five weeks ago while playing tennis all of a sudden my wrist went bad for no known reason as the only thing I did was to hit the ball. The doctor said I probably tore a ligament and recommended that I have a leather support made and also use a heat lamp. This I have done but so far as I can see it is just as tender as ever. It does not hurt except when I turn my hand or when I use the wrist which I have tried to avoid doing.

From what Junior has told me about your wide experience with such ailments I thought possibly you might make a suggestion. I have talked to two or three of my doctor friends but do not get very much satisfaction. would like very much to hear from you and hope you can recommend some treatment. with kindest regards, I am yours very truly,
