Dear Dr. Allen:

Thanks for your letter of January 24th. I greatly appreciate hearing from you.

It is true that this will be my last year of competition but I have not decided exactly what type of work I will go in to. Several positions have already opened up but I am in no particular hurry to make a final decision as there will undoubtedly be a number of others open up during the Spring months.

It is difficult to say what minimum salary I would accept. The financial remuneration is a secondary consideration as I am primarily interested in the position which offers the best future.

If you feel you have an opening there which would offer opportunities for advancement I would like to have you outline the possibilities so that I would have something definite upon which to make a decision.
