

June 9, 1939.

Mr. R. O. Johnson,
Claim and Repair Department,
Central Scientific Company,
1700 Irving Park Blvd.,
Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Mr. Johnson:

I regret that there has been a delay in the transactions regarding the repair of our impulse counter, and want to assure you that our relations with you have been perfectly satisfactory.

Some time ago we sent through our business office the item of $4.00 for payment to you, but it usually takes some time for these things to go through the regular channels.

The repaired counter is satisfactory in every respect. We trust that payment for same will reach you within a short time.

Sincerely yours,

E. R. Elbel,
Asst. Professor of Physical Education.