Dear Ernie:

As soon as your letter arrived at the desk this morning I immediately went to Mr. Earl Falkenstien and told him you were coming with a group Wednesday evening. I know that Mr. Falkenstien will give you the very best seats that he can obtain at the present time.

Thank you for your good wishes. Our team is not as potent as it has been years before. However, we play one good game and then one not so good, so we are not very consistent.

I was intensely interested in ^{your} kind offer to interest Bob Wells, Danielson and Draper in the University of Kansas. After the game Wednesday evening I hope to have an opportunity to chat with you about these boys. I know that you are the type of fellow that recognizes the best in a boy before you recommend him. It is mighty nice of you, Ernie, to be interested, and I assure you I appreciate it.

It will be a great pleasure to see you and your group Wednesday evening. Pull for us, because we need it.

Sincerely yours,

Director of Physical Education,
Varsity Basketball Coach.
