Dear John:

It was nice to have a visit with you this morning. Upon my return to the office I remembered my promise to send you the basketball letter that I have mailed out to all of our candidates. This tells a more full-some story than I could have told you in the short while we visited.

You were looking in your usual good trim and vigor, and my hope is that you may continue in that same way.

With all good wishes, I am

Very sincerely yours,
