Memo to Mr. Davidson --

Dear Mr. Davidson:

Confirming my conversation of this date, the big garage door does not close. I think it needs a little sawed off at the bottom, but you are more of a door-doctor than I am, so you are it. The little garage door had a stump in the center on which a roller was attached. That has rotted out through the years, but I think Mrs. Allen has the roller and we need a stump.

The back porch is run down at the heels. I think it needs a post or two. And the small garage needs re-roofing. Mrs. Allen promised Bill Semple that she would re-roof it with the same type of roofing that is on the other, so if you will take a squint at that - that has always been enough for me to say.

I am going to Chicago Sunday, but I won't have near the fun at Rotary that you will at your childrens' home.

Congratulations on your 70th birthday. May you live another 70! I know you don't want to live longer than that.

Sincerely,

Director of Physical Education,
Varsity Basketball Coach.
