Dear Doc,

I haven't written in a long time but I have been pretty busy for the last couple of months. I am no longer in Hawaii but now I call the Marianas my home. I can't tell you just what island I'm on just now, but I will be able to later on when the censorship regulations are lifted.

Things are pretty rugged over here and there are plenty of Japs here but they are quite dead. I've been through a few of the caves where they made their last stand, and I can tell you that it's quite a sight, not one that I would care to remember. There is hardly a thing left standing on the island except some brush and trees. It really took a terrible beating.

I am getting along alright, just hope that the war ends pretty soon. I'll be look for your "Rebonds" as always,

Armand Difore
