Mr. John T. Doyle,
c/o American Sports Publishing Co.,

New York City, N.Y.

Dear Mr. Doyle:

Doubtless you will receive a tear sheet from Clyde McBride's Sporting Comment as of yesterday, August 12th. But I clipped this out more as a memorandum so it would recall to my mind the necessity of writing you to congratulate you on the most outstanding work perhaps of any man in sports. I say this without fear of flattery or contradiction.

Through the long years you have been a sportsman, a high grade gentleman, and an indefatigable worker. It must be a source of great pride and joy to a man when in his mature years he can look back over a wonderful record of accomplishment and friends by the legion.

It was perfectly fitting that Walter R. Okeson should give you the entire credit by saying "the only editor was John T. Doyle. . . . Hats off to John T. Doyle."

My sincerest wishes to you for many happy and durably joyous days.

Sincerely yours,
