

to U.S.C. to get this Oklahoma boy who is starring now for U.S.C. back to Oklahoma. He said, "I have offered this guy everything I could think of except my private plane. I am going back and offer him that and see if we can't get him back into the state." The boy is now at U.S.C. A chap who is now starring for Oklahoma was out there, but failed or something happened and Oklahoma got him back. But the real star at U.S.C. is the Oklahoma boy. Oklahoma is now in the midst of an oil boom in that they have the large oil executives interested in their football team, and they are really paying the money for them. If you are interested in the name of the man who handles the cash for Oklahoma I can give it to you, but he is in no way directly connected with the institution.

Nebraska. There is a big banker in Lincoln, named Clark, I believe, who handles the money, and the boys are paid their room, tuition and books for football, basketball and track. This is not a new procedure, but has been going on for years for football and a few top athletes, but I understand on good authority this is done now for the three sports at Nebraska. Of course, Dean Thompson knows nothing about it. This practice reached its peak the last few years of Lena Bible's reign there.

Missouri. I had a young man in my home, Frank Watkins, who is an insurance broker in Kansas City. He told us that they were having a definitely organized system at Missouri. Every alumnus in Kansas City and over the state had been asked to give according to his ability to pay. Watkins, a recent graduate, is giving $5.00 and he mentioned men in Kansas City giving up to $500 a piece. There are no tickets or other considerations given; merely the alumnus makes his contribution and expects nothing but a winning team. This applies to the major sports at Missouri, but they are stressing football especially. This statement was prior to the Ohio State game, and Watkins was betting that Missouri would beat Ohio State by seven to ten points. You can imagine the repercussions that are going on down at Missouri at the present time against the head man in football.

Kansas Aggies. When Charles Bachman was at Kansas State there was an organization of men at Manhattan similar to the one we had here when Red Lupton and Frank Terrell and that group operated. Of course, a lot of the stuff is done through fraternities that is done at other institutions in our environment.

Since Bachman's going Wes Fry has come in and Wes Fry played under Howard Jones at the University of Iowa when Iowa beat Yale and other eastern conference champions. When Charlie was Howard Jones's assistant in scouting football, he coached the basketball and baseball teams. Sam Barry was known as one of the keenest and best proselyters in the business. You perhaps remember a few years ago when Major Griffith investigated a young man named Everett Case at Anderson, Indiana, high school who, it was agreed for a certain price and consideration, was to turn athletes to Sam Barry for a consideration and for encouragement in getting a master's degree for this high school coach. This was while Sam Barry was at Iowa.
