

July 28, 1938.

Mr. Paul Endacott,
Executive Vice President,
Phillips Petroleum Co.,
Bartlesville, Oklahoma.

Dear Paul:

George Darrow, who attended the University of Oklahoma one semester and one year, is working for your company. A week ago he was working with his group at Wellsville, Kansas, and he drove over to the University to tell me that he was tremendously interested in coming to Kansas. Mr. E. U. Kile is his boss.

Darrow has written me several letters saying he would like to go to Kansas, and I think Cob Burnside spoke to me about him as a possible K. U. prospect. Darrow wants to get a college education and he has saved up enough money to pay for his first year's tuition and books. I told him to speak to Mr. Kile and see if he would go to the University if it would be possible for him to keep his seniority and at the same time see if he could get a job during the summer.

Now, I understand that you cannot commit yourself, but I wish that you would write me a personal letter giving me some general information about such practices as your company employs concerning jobs similar to what Darrow has and what disposition you make when a boy goes off to school.

Darrow has observed that in the Phillips Petroleum Company there are a great many K. U. men. He wants to attend K. U. and he definitely wants to work for Phillips. He went to Oklahoma City Capitol Hill High School, played football for Jim Lookabaugh, and I believe played basketball under Hallen, a former Sooner captain.

I will appreciate a letter at your convenience.

Sincerely yours,

Director of Physical Education,
Varsity Basketball Coach.
