

Will Establish Lindley Memorial Lectures

By ROY ROBERTS, chairman, committee in charge

FOR TWENTY years Ernest H. Lindley, the late Chancellor of the University of Kansas, was a figure revered and loved, not only by the graduates of the University, but he became almost an institution in Kansas itself. For two decades he gave his best and his all in building his University and his state.

When he retired he looked forward to a continuing service in the years ahead. Long he had planned to devote his final years to a series of lectures at the University, expounding his sane philosophy on the "Values of Living." The late Chancellor felt perhaps he could round out the service of his always fruitful life in these last years aiding the hundreds of young men and women of Kansas in reaching a proper philosophy of life, a worthwhile set of values.

He left the University with zest and started on his trip around the world, disrupted as it was by the war, and for months he delved into the literature of that most ancient of philosophies in China. Always he was alert, gathering material to use on his return in his lectures to the young folks of Kansas. It was a tragedy that he died thousands of miles away from his beloved University. Even his body found its last rest in a watery grave in the Pacific.

CARRY ON HIS IDEA

What better memorial could those of K.U. and Kansas who loved and revered the late Chancellor make to his memory than to carry on and make come true his last hope and ambition, a lectureship on "Values of Living" which could be set up at the University and would be a living memorial to this kindly man?

Such a lectureship would make a genuine contribution to the character building side of the University. It would leave its impress on thousands of future citizens of our state. It would be forever a living memorial to Chancellor Lindley.

To the thousands of K.U. men and women, and Kansans who came under his timely influence, are you ready to give your part to such a memorial fund?

The Lindley Memorial Lectureship Fund will be administered by the Endowment Association. Each year it is proposed that the Chancellor should invite to the University for a lecture, or a series of lectures, some outstanding national or world figure to speak on "Values of Living"—just as the late Chancellor proposed to do in his courses "The Human Situation" and "Plan for Living."

Contributions may be sent to the Lindley Memorial Lectureship Fund, Roy A. Roberts, fs'08, chairman, room 303 B, Frank Strong Hall, Lawrence, or to any member of the committee.
