

"As to my own reaction to your proposed school, I think the idea is tops. It has been my observation that coaches attending our school 'go' for the discussions on training and injuries ahead of everything else. If you happened to be on hand at the time, perhaps you noticed the rush for front row seats the minute I announced Dr. Cramer's part on our program.

"We added Bill Frey, the Iowa trainer, to our program this year, entirely as the result of the unusual interest evidenced by our coaches in the training and injury angles. I am sure that at least two of our one-hour periods will be devoted to these subjects again next year. Most of the letters I have received since the school ended have had some comment to offer on these angles.

"I heartily agree with you that the high school coaches know less about the treatment of athletic injuries than they do of any sport they teach. . . . Again let me repeat that I like your idea. . . ."

Let me hear from you when the president returns.

With every good wish, I am

Sincerely yours,

Director of Physical Education,
Varsity Basketball Coach.
