

September 15, 1937.

Dr. W. F. Bowen,
Topeka, Kansas.

Dear Dr. Bowen:

Charles L. Mitchell sent me one of his famous letters in which he enclosed a clipping from A. J. Carruth's Whispering Willow column. Of course, this had something to say about Charles L. Mitchell, which should be complimentary, but the best news that I read in the column was the report of your continued convalescence.

Dr. Esterly and Dick Wagstaff were tremendously interested individuals during all the time of your serious illness last spring.

I want you to know that while I have met you only on a few occasions that it gave me great pleasure to know of your return to health. You have been a wonderful satisfaction, and you have many admirers who, although they do not come in close contact with you, realize your exceptional worth.

With every good wish, I am

Sincerely yours,
