

January 22, 1938.

Miss Ruth Forsythe,
Federal Reserve Bank,
Kansas City, Missouri.

Dear Miss Forsythe:

Thank you so much for your very fine letter of the 18th instant. I have checked with Mr. Earl Falkenstien, our financial secretary, and he is mailing you the ten basketball tickets. This is a small consideration for your kindness, and I assure you that we greatly appreciate it.

We will follow all the directions that you have given in your letter so that we can have everything ready to make your stay here as pleasant as possible under the conditions. You will hear from me again in the meantime but I am just informing you now of the details of the situation, and I want to add my immense "thank you" for your most pleasing cooperation.

There is one point that I wish to bring up now. Our tables do not have the green top. They are just plain varnished tables. I am wondering if you think we should try to locate some official ping pong tables here. There is just one that we know of, and that is at the hotel. Perhaps we could locate some others if you desire. Please inform us on this point.

Sincerely yours,

Director of Physical Education,
Varsity Basketball Coach.

FCA:AH