Dear Dr. Allen:

Your basketball story arrived on time as you promised, and everyone here was quite pleased with it. Good live, timely, controversial material, and excellently written. We feel certain it will do quite well in our February issue, which runs throughout January in the midst of the basketball season.

It will tie in very well also with our Poll for that month, which includes the rotation question. Unfortunately, it seems to me, the majority are voting against the center-jump. I wouldn't be surprised, though, if your article eventually swings a lot of people the other way.

At the same time, I want to thank you personally for the prompt response you gave us on this idea, and your completely competent handling of the assignment.

With heartiest good wishes,

Cordially,

Ralph Cannon
