OVERLOOKING FOREST PARK

SAINT LOUIS

Thurs. 31, 1943

Were called at 7:00. Dressed, ate in hotel cafe and took taxis to main station of Philadelphia. After Doc had bought us a class of orange juice, we boarded the train for Pittsburg.

It was a very uneventful day. Hot foots were barred. Almost everybody slept. Those that didn't sleep played cards.

An interesting scene was the great horseshoe formed by the railroad track we went were going up into the mountains. We could see the track way off above us on the other side of
