

Vance Hall

December 28

This morning we were all to go visit Radio City. After we arrived there, our party was lost from Dr. Allen and the other crop, so we went on a private little tour of our own. On the tour we listened in to a program which was on the aid, and saw many interesting things which enlightened us as to just how a program is sent to our radio in our own homes.

That afternoon was spent in sleeping and resting up for the game.

At night the game was played. 'Nuff said.

After the game we all forgot our woes, tried to away, and went to the Blue Room of Hotel Lincoln and listened to Tony Pasteur and orchestra. All the boys tried to dance more than their share with Eleanor Allen. It was pretty late when we finally were able to get to bed.

Howard Engleman, Bill Hogben, Norman Sanneman, Brad Thompson, and I all went sight-seeing in the morning, traveling all around on the subways and ferries.

After lunch we packed and said goodbye to old New York.

We arrived in Philadelphia, then went to Swarthmore, and were met by Coach Bill Stetson, of Swarthmore College, and Bob Reid. These gentlemen proved to be true friends and helped us greatly at all times. Before eating, we had a short work-out in the Swarthmore Field House.
