

BRASS TACKS

"Cy" Sherman

COLLEGE sports, particularly basketball, are reaping a bumper crop of embarrassments. At the moment when the Madison Square Garden management and Cage Scandal most of the executives in Surface Only college athletics probably were hopeful that the Brooklyn college bribery scandal talk had subsided to a whisper, Radio Commentator Walter Winchell proceeded Sunday night to boom the charge that the scandal surface had no more than been Scratched? scratched.

Meaning, of course, that exposures may be on the way involving various previous games at the Garden that have been out of line with honest practices.

If the Winchell indictment has its verification in subsequent developments, the glib-tongued New Yorkers who, a few months ago, were so busy denouncing Coach Phog Allen of Kansas will have plenty for which to apologize, as it's in the record that Phog gave full warning a Garden showdown was on the way that would "stink to the high heavens."

* * * *

WALTER WINCHELL, of course, might have been popping-off a bit—guessing at corruption in college sports without having the definite proof to back him up. Whether or no, the expose involving Chance For the Brooklyn Mr. Smith To players was Call His Shot sufficient in