

The New York newspaper carried a story about two weeks ago, which said that determined efforts were going to be made, to break up the gambling in the Garden.

So you see after all, your complaint has done some good, and perhaps will cure this evil.

Off the record, I had a letter from my boy, who is at one of the Middle schools. He tells me that one of the boys with him, was at Georgetown, and a few ^{or couple of} years ago their team was approached by the gamblers in N. Y. the afternoon before they were to play at the Garden. I expect to see him in a few weeks, and if I can dig more out of him I will advise you as to details.

You and I both know that there is in New York a certain element, that has no regard for anything except money, and believe that everyone has a price. Will not fool them, and prove that honesty and decency is something that can't be bought.

Sincerely yours
James A. McFarland
