Mr. John Glenn,
Beardstown, Illinois.

Dear John:

When your good letter arrived at the office I took it home to let Mrs. Allen read. She read it, and to my consternation the next day she told me that she had thrown it in the wastebasket, thinking that I had finished with it.

Many times I tell Mrs. Allen of certain communications that come to my office and she says, Why don't you bring the letter down? It is quite a little chore to think of getting the various letters from your desk home and back to the files in proper order, and this goes to show that it is best to leave your correspondence at the office.

The big lament is that I failed to take down the address of our mutual friend in Peoria, and I am writing to impose upon your good nature asking if you will again send me the address, and I will promptly make a notation of it and write the gentleman without further delay.

Trusting that this is not too much for you, and wishing you the season's greetings, I am

Very sincerely yours,

Director of Physical Education,
Varsity Basketball Coach.
