

September 25, 1937.

Coach Judge Grimsley,
Mason City High School,
Mason City, Iowa.

Dear Judge:

The "Anthony Adverse of Basketball", known otherwise as "Better Basketball, Incorporating Technique, Tactics and Tales" is published by McGraw-Hill and Company, of New York, but it will not be out until the first week in November. The publishers just won't promise it any sooner. They state that they are getting along swimmingly.

I wrote a little synopsis which gives the dope on the book. I am sending it to you so you can know about what to expect.

I will not handle any of the books, but if you would write to Mr. Curtis W. McGraw, vice president of the McGraw-Hill Company, telling him you are anxious to get one it might put a little pressure on them to hurry the book along. And what vice president wouldn't like to get a letter from Judge Grimsley?

Thanks, Judge, I enjoyed your presence at the Okeboji Coaching School. I always enjoy being around you.

Also say a kind "Hello" to my good friend, Charlie Strickland. I think he is regular. I told him what a swell bunch of coaches Mason City has, and I believe it. Give my regards to your contemporaries.

With every good wish, I am

Sincerely yours,

FCA:AH

Director of Physical Education.