

authentic dances, heretofore unpublished, which will be available in mimeographed form for those who attend the Dance Festival. Dr. Duggan will teach the dances that the various ethnological groups use as pure recreation, and not any of the highly technical ritualistic dances. The dances will be demonstrated and taught with the assistance of five physical education staff members and three major students from T.S.C.W. One of the staff members who is coming was for two years on the women's All-American hockey team, and on the All-American La Crosse team in 1935. Another staff member is a former president of the T.S.C.W. student body, which numbers over 2,000 girls, making it the largest resident girls' school in the world.

American, Swedish, Norwegian, Danish, Finnish, Swiss, English, and Slavic dances will be taught, in addition to modern versions of folk tunes such as "Beer Barrel Polka" and the schottische step for "Man With the Mandolin". Dr. Duggan has taught these dances to all types of groups from university presidents to professional football players and all have been equally enthusiastic about her. Her youth and her dynamic personality have made her a favorite in whatever group she finds herself.

Comfortable clothes, shorts, slacks, and flat shoes should be worn to all sessions as this kind of dancing covers more space and requires more energy than even the most intricate "jitter-bugging".
