

*CENTER. . . JOHN SCHOMER. . . CHICAGO. . . 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909

Remarkable ball handler and floor man. Splendid shot. Chosen on the Helms All-America teams of 1906, 1907, 1908, and 1909. The first player to be given four-year All-America recognition by Helms Athletic Foundation. Led the Western Conference in scoring in 1907, 1908, and 1909, being the only player to ever lead Western Conference scorers on three occasions.

Ranked by many Basketball authorities, including Ralph Morgan, as one of the very greatest of all collegiate players. Was a member of the University of Chicago teams which were chosen National Champions for the 1908, 1909 seasons by Helms Athletic Foundation.

Has served as Mid-West Basketball official for many years, being one of the most capable in the game.

*CENTER. . . GEORGE GLAMACK. . . NORTH CAROLINA, 1940, 1941, 1942

One of greatest shots of all time. Exceptional ball handler. Chosen on Helms All-America teams of 1940, 1941. An amazing player. Stood 6 feet, 5 inches in height. Was ambidextrous, and so nearsighted that the ball was merely a dim object. Shot by instinct. Scored 458 of North Carolina's 1,210 points in 1940. In three nights of Southern Conference Tournament play in 1940, registered a total of 62 points. Scored a total of 306 points in Southern Conference play in 1941, averaging 20.4 points per game. Scored 45 points in a game against Clemson in 1941. Glamack made the remarkable total of 578 points in 28 games played by North Carolina in 1941, the greatest number ever made by a player.

Glamack was awarded the all-time center post over Charles "Stretch" Murphy, of Purdue's teams of 1928, 1929, and 1930, who was given worthy consideration.

*GUARD. . . EARLAN ORVILLE PAGE. . . CHICAGO, 1908, 1909, 1910

Played in days when guards had to be rugged. . . and he was. An exceptional defensive player who was never outsmarted. Chosen on the Helms All-America teams of 1908, 1909, and 1910. Member of University of Chicago teams of 1908, and 1909, which were chosen for National Championship honors by Helms Athletic Foundation. Brilliant guarding limited Pennsylvania to 33 points in two-game National Championship series in 1908. With Page leading defense, Chicago held opponents to 122 points in 12 Conference games in 1909, and to 156 points in 12 Conference games in 1910.

Ranked by many Basketball authorities, including Ralph Morgan, as one of the very greatest guards of all time.

Took up coaching after leaving college, having a lengthy and successful career.

*GUARD. . . EDWARD MC NICHOL. . . PENNSYLVANIA. . . 1915, 1916, 1917

A brilliant defensive man, and an excellent shot. Exceptional foul shot. Scored 103 points in 10 games in 1915, and 118 points in 1916 -- 86 of which were foul goals. Against Yale in 1916, made 12 fouls in 12 tries. Chosen on the Helms All-America teams of 1915, 1916, and 1917. With McNichol leading the defense, Pennsylvania held Eastern Intercollegiate League opponents to 170 points in 10 games in 1916. Three times during the season of 1916, Penn adversaries were held to 9 points.

Ralph Morgan, eminent Basketball authority, regards Edward McNichol the greatest guard the East ever produced. Many other authorities are of the same opinion. After graduating from Penn, McNichol returned to his Alma Mater as coach, experiencing many successful years. He coached Pennsylvania to a National Championship in 1921.

Note: George Glamack, North Carolina Center, was chosen Player of the Year in 1940, and 1941 by Helms Athletic Foundation. Luisetti of Stanford is the only other player to twice gain Player of the Year honors.
