I happen to be stationed on Angel Island which is very close to San Francisco (also Alcatraz); consequently, I get to see many of the games played there. Last week I saw a very interesting battle between Frank Giusetti and Jim Pollard. The "Great Frank" came out on top with a scant thirty-two points. John Burns was one of the officials for the game. In talking to him, he told me much about Giusetti. Indeed, he is a great team-player as well.

Your friend (and everyone's), Rope Engler, was listed on the lineup, but as you know, he is out-to-see performing another task right now.
