

F
August 12, 1939.

Mr. Mansfield Hyatt,
951 $\frac{1}{2}$  Clarissa St.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dear Mansfield:

I have your good letter and I want you to know that I do not have one dislike for you. On the other hand, I want you to know that I appreciate your outspoken remarks, and if there is any way that I can help you at any time I want you to call on me.

The only way I know for two fellows to understand each other is to speak very frankly, and both you and I have done that. I want you to know that any time you come our way for conference, visit or any other intention or motive, it will be a great pleasure for me to sit and talk with you.

You have a swell brother and I know that you have a lot of stuff in you. I somehow feel that you have not made the most of your opportunities, but you still have the ability. Perhaps your disappointments in the other two situations will help you to clear the obstacles that have besetted you. I am speaking now of the future.

With kindest regards and assurances of my genuine friendliness, I am

Very sincerely yours,

Director of Physical Education and Recreation,
Varsity Basketball Coach.

FCA:AH