

October 1, 1937.

Mr. D. G. Hamilton,
c/o Mrs. Wm. W. Blair,
1100 North 4th Street,
Atchison, Kansas.

Dear Mr. Hamilton:

Confirming my phone conversation this morning, I am expecting to leave the tickets at the Hotel Cornhusker with the mail clerk there. However, should you have any difficulty, I wish you would please ask for Mr. Schimmel, the owner and proprietor. I am taking every precaution against any slip-up at this late date.

In my letter to you dated September 18 you will recall a paragraph in the letter as follows:

"I am using a little pressure in obtaining these tickets from him, if at all possible. I am asking that he mail them direct to you, or write you enclosing your check if he is unable to supply them."

I cannot see how in the world this error has crept in, but that is over the dam now, and I have three tickets for you which are in Section F, Row 45, Seats 20, 21, 22. By looking at the stadium chart which is printed on the back of the ticket I find that Row F is between the 40 and 50 yard lines.

I am quoting an excerpt from Major Jones' letter of September 20: "Many thanks for the great interest you are taking in boosting our ticket sale. I received the check from your friend in Kansas City this morning and we are mailing the tickets.

"In regard to taking care of the father-in-law of your daughter, Mr. Hamilton, we are mailing out three seats in the concrete stands. As you know, they cannot be very choice this late but we have done the best we can."

Let's make it this way, to be sure. I will leave these tickets with the mail clerk at the Cornhusker Hotel but I will be in the lobby at 12 o'clock so that you may page me and if anything goes awry I'll be there. I will also have you paged so that there will be no question about
