Dr. F. C. Allen

Dear Sir:

The society editor of the Herald, Mrs. E. I. Pearce, has a husband who is afflicted with a lame back. He has been to several doctors here and in other towns, has visited chirporacters, and has been to several health resorts in an attempt to cure the lameness. All doctors have advised him there is nothing wrong with the joints in his back, and X-rays fail to reveal any other possible defects.

His back bothers him a great deal and sometimes he can hardly get out of bed in the morning, and sometimes he cannot sleep.

I ~~remembered~~ remembered your ability in taking care of all sorts of muscular ailments, and hope I am not presuming too much in asking if it would be possible to at least look at the man. Mrs. Pearce said she and her husband would be glad to come up any evening or Sunday if you would.

If you wonder how I happen to know you, I graduated from K. U. in 1937 and alived in Lawrence all my life until last year.

Respectfully
