have been removed from it, and "next time" the neurosurgeon says he will be able to get good nerve bundles for a permanent suture. Today I removed a cast I've been wearing for 5 weeks, so celebrated it with a swim in the pool.

We have quite an extensive reconditioning program here — a fine big well-equipped gymnasium, beautiful swimming pool, and various diamonds and courts, plus fishing and hiking trips in the mountains. Oh yes, set by the swimming pool are two golf hi courts. I never shook out there without thinking of you. My left-handed shooting and passing, like penmanship, is improving slowly but surely. Sure wish I would have had this left hand a few years ago!
