Mr. Harold Keith,
Dept. of Intercollegiate Athletics,
University of Oklahoma,
Norman, Oklahoma.

Dear Harold:

I am writing you concerning my impressions of the Oklahoma-Kansas football game played at Norman, Oklahoma, on November 6, 1920. I am wondering if you would be kind enough to send me the line-up of the Kansas men taking part in the Oklahoma game. I will give you a sketchy background of my impressions now, and after I get the line-up from you, which will be better than what I would have here, then I will augment this with some personal accounts of the players. By the way, you had better send me a line-up of the Oklahoma team and the men participating because I remember Dr. Phil White, who did the punting.

Dr. White had a dislocated shoulder prevention strap. It was attached to the shoulder and anchored to the football pants by a belt. I only mention this to let you know that I remember a lot of the game details, but I need names to sharpen my memory on some points.

We had not lost a game up to the time we played Oklahoma, having beaten Washburn, Emporia Teachers under Bill Hargiss, Drake, Ames and the Kansas Aggies. It was Bachman's first year at Kansas State and we had quite a ball game with him. Then we met Oklahoma at Norman. As I recall, there were few benches, if any, on the sidelines and most of us, as I recall, sat either on the bermuda or piles of hay on the sidelines.

I remember Mechem, who was Bennie Owens' assistant - I believe it is Dean Mechem now. He was pretty fiery. The coaching staffs, moving up and down the sidelines, had opportunity for conversation with each other, which as the game progressed got spirited at times. I mention this because not only the coaches and players, but a number of spectators formed a flange along the sidelines.

If you will give me the order in which the teams scored I will tell you which touchdown was scored by Oklahoma by the end running out around behind the players and coaches, off the field of play, and coming in back on the field behind the defensive man, John Bunn, who is now dean of men at Stanford. Bunn was looking for him to come down the field, but he came behind the coaches and players, and scored a touchdown.
