most discouraging game of the year due to the inactivity of the offensive team. The defense ~~would not~~ would not come out after them and the offense would not risk a shot since they protected a one point lead. From a standpoint of training, they have been placing emphasis upon teaching the teasing instinct to the human animal rather than aggressive fighting spirit, which is more favorably looked upon. I am delighted with the new changes.

In the May issue of College Humor, Ted O'Leary was picked by Les Gage on his All Americans in Basket Ball and Hockey. He has this to say of O'Leary. "Ted O'Leary of Kansas had just about all a coach could desire in a forward - a great team-work man, aggressive and smart. O'Leary could shoot from any spot in the scoring area. He was at his best in the pinch, always cool and steady."
