

July 8, 1940.

Mr. Frank J. Jones,
1108 Sloan Avenue,
Scranton, Pennsylvania.

Dear Mr. Jones:

I find that I have failed to answer your communication of June first asking for some information on basketball.

The fact that you are to coach basketball this coming year should enable you to have access to the city or school library in your town. I am sure that there you will find a copy either of "My Basketball Bible", or my latest book, "Better Basketball", published by McGraw-Hill Company. "My Basketball Bible" is out of print, but all of the fundamentals that are incorporated therein are as good as the day that I wrote them. The changes in the rules have necessitated changes in certain attacks, but the fundamentals are the same.

For that reason I feel that if you should go to your city library you will find one of these books on the shelves. If not, ask for some of the books on basketball that they undoubtedly have in the library. I trust this will answer your need.

Very sincerely yours,

Director of Physical Education and Recreation,
Varsity Basketball Coach.

FCA:AH