Dear Jim:

I notice in your fall catalog that the largest Medicine Ball you list is only 12 inches in diameter.

I realize it would be impossible to make up any at this time on account of the shortage on leather, but I am wondering if you can't cast about and get some of the larger balls from some other sources from stock on hand. We have several of the larger ones that are nearly worn out, but since we have both Army and Navy training schools located here we feel that the larger ball will fit into the service training better than the small one.

Sincerely yours,
