

November 13, 1939.

Dr. Cecil B. Ferguson,
Osteopathic Physician,
Miami, Florida.

Dear Doctor Cecil:

Last summer I was conducting a coaching school for the Georgia Coaches Association at Georgia Tech. While there I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. P. W. Lang, of Forsyth, Georgia, inventor of the Lang Foot and Arch Normalizer. He showed me a copy of a letter written to him by Max Carey, president and treasurer of the Miami Baseball and Athletic Training School.

I want you to know that I tried out one of Mr. Lang's arch normalizers and I found it a very definite help to some foot and arch difficulty that I had been experiencing for a few years. I am positively sold on this apparatus and am just writing you for old time's sake. I have not forgotten the battles that we used to have in baseball years ago. Personally, I would like to hear from you and to know how the world is treating you. I have heard a number of times indirectly from you and now take this means of saying hello to you personally.

I would be very happy to have you write me and tell me if you came directly in contact with the normalizer and just how much it was used down there at the school.

By the way, Johnny Montgomery, who is one of our graduates and a very personal friend of mine, was promotional manager of the Miami Biltmore. Is he still there? If he is, do not fail to give him a ring and tell him I said hello.

With continued good wishes, I am

Very sincerely yours,

Director of Physical Education and Recreation,
Varsity Basketball Coach.

FCA:AH