

May 2, 1938.

Mr. Earl Woodward,
The Salina Journal,
Salina, Kansas.

Dear Woody:

First, I want to thank you for your very hospitable reception that I received from your hands. It was nice of you in your busy hours to take time off for the entertainment of the quartet at the noon luncheon. Thank you very much.

I had a chance to see your son Bob at the high school assembly. He is a fine looking chap, and I assure you that I will take a very special interest in him when he comes to the University.

Roger Brice, of the high school, had written me a letter saying he was much interested in attending the University. It happened that he filled my car with gas at the Skelly station, but I did not know that it was he. However, I saw Dutch Uurlaub and he called Roger up and I drove down there and found that I had previously been talking to the young man but neither of us knew the identity of the other. Roger is quite sure that he wants to attend the University, and I believe that we have a way of helping him because he has some special talents that will enable him to make a little more money than the ordinary high school boy who desires to enroll at the University.

On April 16 I wrote Dr. Lawrence Nelson regarding Maxine Woody, one of our physical education majors, who is minoring in biological sciences. She has ten hours each of English and Spanish to her credit and she is desirous of getting a job as physical education teacher for girls in some school in central or western Kansas. Miss Woody is a sister of Warren and Taft Woody, who, as you know, are Kansas graduates and both are high-powered executives in the Equitable of New York, with offices in Chicago.

Miss Woody came to me and asked me to help her out. Dr. Nelson wrote me and suggested that she apply, and gave the necessary information. I am wondering if you will kindly keep her name on your memory slip and if anything does come up that an opening should exist I would appreciate your good offices.