Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Warren:

I am sending you a copy of a letter that Dick LaBan wrote me on October 27th. I am sending it to you because you showed a courtesy to me in giving this boy your attention.

Dick and I had not been bosom chums because he was over in the Journalism Department at the time the boys turned the heat on me. However, I did not think Dick had anything to do with it. He has a bright mind and he was very energetic, and when he came over to ask for anything I always gave him a break. I think any older man should give a young fellow a chance if he can.

Then when he graduated he asked me to help him out and I was glad to do so. For that reason I am sending you this letter to let you know that I am pleased that he has faith in men to help each other, and I am thankful to you for all the kindnesses that you showed him. In the long run your bread was cast upon the water, because he is with your good corporation.

With all good wishes and many thanks for your helpfulness, I am

Very sincerely yours,
