Chicago, Illinois.

My dear Mr. Mons:

I feel as if we are pretty well acquainted with you after Elwood's visit here with us, and especially after Jane's return for the month.

I am writing to extend an invitation to you to be my guest on Friday, the 5th of September, for golf on our rather sporting little eighteen-hole Country Club course. We have had considerable rain of late and the ill-famed Kansas sun has not been too intense on our fairways. So I am sure that you will enjoy your outing on our course.

Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Mons have been corresponding so we will leave their plans to them. I hope that you can make arrangements to tear yourself away from your busy existence in Chicago for this short respite. I am looking forward to our meeting.

Very cordially yours,

Director of Physical Education and Recreation,
Varsity Basketball Coach.
