Dear Grand-dad:

Bess just handed me your letter and asked that I send you these three tickets so that you could enjoy the game.

It happened that your letter came so late that we could not put your seats with Bess, because there is a sell-out, and we are fortunate in getting these tickets for you at this late date.

Bob read your letter and I assure you he will do the best that he can to make you proud of him. We hope to see you after the game.

With love,
