Dear Charlie:

The only thing left for the Missouri game is standing room, and Mr. Earl Falkenstien, the financial secretary of the Athletic Association, is putting 200 tickets of this type on sale the night of the game. I am sorry that I am unable to get reserved seats for you, because I would like for your boy to see the game.

You know I would do anything I could to procure seats for you, but the last two were sold yesterday while we were taking a licking down at Stillwater.

I am returning your check.

Very sincerely yours,

Director of Physical Education and Recreation,
Varsity Basketball Coach.
