

Harold Miller got the refund eventually, but not until Bunn had written him a second letter demanding the money, and Miller sent it to Bunn. Now, to my way of thinking, it looks like the Wichita alumni have some money coming.

We did not go after Johnson of Oklahoma or Pralle of St. Louis. We didn't ask them to make an application. The fact about Johnson is that when the University of Oklahoma fired Stratton Brooks, the president, Swan Johnson (the boy's father) said that he would not send any more of his boys to Oklahoma, and it was Cob Burnside, a Phi Delt, who is manager of the Carpenter Paper Company at Oklahoma City, who got Bill to come to K. U., and Bill pledged Phi Delt.

For Fred Pralle of St. Louis, it was none other than Otto Rost, our football captain, who was the cause of sending Pralle to Kansas. Neither one of them received any money or any tempting juicy offers of jobs. In fact, Pralle did not have a job most of the time, only that of waiting on tables at the Delta Tau house. Otto Rost was a Delta Tau, and Fred Pralle pledged Delta Tau. So the fraternities did their stuff there.

Pralle and Johnson both paid double tuition, being from out of the state, and they paid their own so far as I know.

If John Bunn pays taxes in the state of Kansas and expects to take boys out of Kansas, then it seems to me just as logical for any other taxpayer to think he has a claim on athletes here, and since we have a million and a half people we wouldn't have enough boys to go around. Personally, I think that is one of the lamest arguments I have ever heard, and the fact that John again rises up and makes a play on his weakness I think does not justify his attempted action.

With all good wishes, I am

Very sincerely yours,
