

made it so bad to get ^{work}. I see too, much of this work is P. W. G. and a Newcomer just can't get on it. I'm finding out that most jobs are only temporary even though they pay well. There just doesn't seem to be any seemingly permanent jobs open.

I really don't know what to think about it all. I hate to admit that I can't get work but when everybody says "no" you have to admit something.

I'll tell you too, that it isn't the work that I am worried about. I'd gladly do anything if I could only see some future in it. I don't care about a job that doesn't require some qualifications of its employees.

You asked me to numerate the things which I might like to do best. I'll say that first, I like best to work or be with boys or people. I do feel that I can get along with anybody so long as they treat me fairly at all. I think my past experience qualifies my statement. Second, I would like to get work with some company where I might have a liveable income and with a chance to work up and at least get some recognition for what I might do. By a liveable income I mean $100. per month or better. All I ask of any employer is to just give me a job and a chance and I'll do the rest. (over)
