

June 13, 1938.

Mr. Curtis W. McGraw,
McGraw-Hill Book Co.,
330 West 42nd Street,
New York City, N.Y.

Dear Mr. McGraw:

I am the one who owes you an abject apology. With commencement speeches, examination papers to grade, and the summer enrollment to occupy my attention, I find that I have neglected my correspondence to you very much.

Today I start on a one-week intensive short course in basketball and the treatment of athletic injuries. But even these busy assignments will not sidetrack this much delayed epistle.

Regarding the book on Treatment of Football Injuries, I think that we should begin soon. The first thing is to photograph the injuries and the method of treatment. This summer when I can get the subjects handily would be a good time for it. Are you willing that I get McLain, the same fellow who shot my other basketball pictures, to do this job for me?

Please let me know about this at your convenience.

Very sincerely yours,

Director of Physical Education,
Varsity Basketball Coach.

FCA:AH